Hamlin-Rotan Road Designated

One of the long looked-for points of development in this section of the state became a reality this week when the Highway Department announced that they had designated the section of road from Hamlin to Rotan as a part of the state highway system.

Recently Commissioner John C. Turner and J. J. Waggoner returned from Austin where they placed our claim for the road designation. This really means the extension of the Highway No. 92 which is generally spoken of as the Hamlin-Stamford road. This will give both Hamlin and Rotan a better outlet. For this city a better western outlet and for Rotan better connection with hard roads east and north.

The message from the Highway Department indicated that engineers would make a survey of the road and it would appear that work will likely start at an early date.

Hamlin and Rotan are both in line for great development because of the new oil fields of Jones and Fisher Counties.

When this road is finally finished and one more road completed (Hamlin to Sweetwater) then we shall be pretty well fixed except that the Hamlin-Sweetwater road should connect with the Rule road.

MRS. W. A. MAYNARD

Mrs. W. A. Maynard died Monday evening, August 9, at 8:20 o'clock, in the home of her son, G. C. Maynard near Neinda.

Lydia Jane Rambo was born in Columbus, Indiana, November 2, 1872. She was married to W. A. Maynard in Columbus on November 17, 1887, and to that union seven children were born, two died in infancy and five survive, three sons and two daughters, G. C. Maynard, A. B. Maynard, and W. L. Maynard, of Hamlin, Mrs. A. G. McGee of Waco, and Mrs. L. A. Renchler of Hamlin. Besides her children, she is survived by several grandchildren. Her husband preceded her in death about thirty five years.

In 1904 Mrs. Maynard with her family, accompanied by her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Rambo, moved to Jones County, and for thirty three years had lived in the Carlton and Neinda communities, where she numbered her friends by those who knew her.

When a very young girl she was converted and became a member of the Methodist Church, living a consecrated Christian life, ever faithful and loyal to her Master.

Funeral service was conducted Tuesday afternoon by the pastor, Rev. Bateman, at the Neinda Methodist Church where Mrs. Maynard had been a member for the past thirty years.

Interment was in the Neinda cemetery under the direction of the Barrow Funeral Home of Hamlin.

Casino Singer

Ruth Robin

Singing with the Phil Harris Band in the Casino at the Pan American Exposition is charming Ruth Robin, who takes the place of Leah Ray, recently risen to movie fame. New Casino attractions are the Four Kraddocks, acrobats and comedians, and Charlotte Arren and Johnnie Broderick in "Opera in the Rough." This comedy act stops the show every evening. Lanny Ross, star of Showboat, and Art Jarrett sing the theme songs. The precision chorus of Chester Hale is as charming and accurate as...

WTCC EXHIBIT ATTRACTS CROWDS

FORT WORTH. — As the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Natural Resources exhibit rounds out its fourth week as an educational attraction of the Fort Worth Frontier Fiesta, it is evident that the phenomenal success of last year's exhibit will be equalled or exceeded this year.

The unique method of developing the progress of West Texas from the primitive to the present has proven pleasing to visitors who spend much time in developing the story for themselves.

As it has since its introduction to the public at the Century of Progress in Chicago in 1933, the West Texas map in base relief is attracting unusual attention. Groups of visitors are to be seen studying its contour and legends each evening. An accurate check of them reveals that the average visitor spends more minutes in the study of it than in any other exhibit in the building.

A total of 3119 persons have been registered during the period. The average registrations per day have been 112, with an average of 13 states and 10 West Texas towns per day represented.

The unusual wheat yield in West Texas and high prices for lambs, wool and cattle have been the subject of much inquiry from out-of-state visitors.

This action follows the recommendation of the State Health Office.

OF INTEREST TO AGED NEEDY

AUSTIN, Texas. —Reinvestigation of the rolls is the normal process by which a social welfare program is adjusted to changing economic conditions, State Pension Director W. A. Little explained this week.

"It is logical that an assistant grant made six months ago is probably either too small or too large for the present needs of an applicant. 'Reinvestigation' means that the Old Age Assistance Commission is going back and studying cases to see if each grant meets the needs of the individual," he added.

Little said the old age pension assistance program under both the Texas and federal laws was based upon the grants of aid being in the exact amounts of the needs of the applicants. He pointed out that continuous re investigations were an important part of any welfare program.

"When a grant is changed, either by being raised or lowered, such action must come only after the studied and serious consideration of the conditions surrounding the particular resources. To change a person's grant without a complete study of his case would be thoroughly unfair," the Director declared.

By JOHN P. HARDESTY

Funeral services were held Monday at 4 P. M. at the Baptist Church for Roy Perryman, who died early Sunday morning. According to the verdict of Coroner John W. Funeral services for D. C. Mills, who died from gun-shot wounds early Tuesday morning, were held from the Baptist Church Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, conducted by Pastor Hardesty, followed by burial in the local cemetery under direction of Maples Funeral Home.

Mr. Mills was section foreman for the Santa Fe railroad here since November 1935, when the family moved here from Canyon, where he had been employed by the railroad in the same capacity. Mr. Mills lived an unusually good life as a citizen of this community, numbering his friends by his acquaintances. The men who worked with him declare that never did they know a cleaner or more upright man, or one for whom they would prefer to work. For some time Mr. Mills had been in poor health. The Methodist revival closed last Sunday night. Bro. Fisher, of Rotan, did some very fine preaching. Several made rededications of their lives, and some others were converted. We do not have the entire list.

The Baptist congregation will begin a revival meeting on the 4th Sunday in August. The pastor and church will conduct it. It is hoped that they may have the cooperation of all saved people in this meeting.

Pastor Hardesty and Dewey L. Smith will begin a meeting at Moody, some twelve miles south of Roby next Sunday, to run one week. Bro. Smith will have charge of the music. Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Mayo, of Fort

OPPORTUNITY FOR SMALL BUSINESS MAN

In a recent issue of Harper's Magazine, John Allen Murphy writes on "Can the Small Business Man Survive?" He covers the business and industry generally, and pays special attention to retailing, of which he says: "With scarcely an exception, retail establishments of the United States started humbly. In most cases the young storekeeper was his own buyer, clerk, window washer, and janitor, at first. Most of gigantic chains were founded with one store, and there were long, hard struggles before a second was launched. Chains starting with many units have rarely succeeded. It appears necessary for a business to establish itself slowly, laying one stone at a time . . .

"The evidence is overwhelming that the small business man has a chance."

To say that opportunity no longer exists for the small retailer to grow and prosper, is to blind oneself to the facts. During the depression, many of a young man with only a meager string managed to make both ends meet by serving the public honestly and well, and now is on the road to expansion. A chain system that now has hundreds of outlets in the Western section of the country, was started by a young man with only a modicum of capital, who foresaw the public demand for stores that would give the best possible service at the lowest possible cost.

Today many a little retailer is working 18 hours a day, with ambitious plans in the back of his head for expansion of business and income—plans that will one day mature and become realities. Today the small business man who is awake to the needs and demands of the times, and isn't afraid of work, has an unparalleled opportunity to progress and prosper.

ARE WE INDIFFERENT TO SLAUGHTER?

Automobile accidents can be reduced. Death on the highway can be stopped.

Last year, traffic fatalities reached an all-time high of 38,500. Yet 18 states and the District of Columbia showed an average reduction of 7 per cent in deaths—even though gasoline consumption, best barometer of traffic conditions, increased ten per cent.

These states weren't "just lucky". Chance didn't save the lives of their citizens. According to National Safety Council, all but two of the states carry on aggressive programs for safety engineering, law enforcement, education, legislation, etc. The same authority reports that in half of the remaining 30 states next to nothing is done to prevent the Grim Reaper's grisly harvest.

There are two prime causes of automobile accidents. One is the reckless, incompetent and dangerous driver. He can be curbed to some extent by up-to-date traffic laws that are honestly and rigidly enforced.

The other cause is dangerous, "accident prone" locations—bad intersections, narrow highways without dividing areas, etc. Here the highway engineer must be called in to eliminate such needless hazards and thus make it virtually impossible to have an accident.

"Make our Town safe" should be a community motto. It's high time as the New York Times says, that we "shook off our comparative national indifference to this man-made evil . . . and began safety campaigns in earnest."—Dickens County Times.

Swine Raising Offers Farmer Meat and Cash

PRICE TREND GOOD; NEED BALANCED RATIONS FOR RAPID, CHEAP GAINS

(This is one or a series of short authentic articles on livestock production and feeding, published as a service to farmers and stockmen.)

With hog prices at new highs for recent years and the price outlook for fall and winter favorable, pork production offers an opportunity for Southern farmers to supply their own meat and to market their feed crops profitably through pork.

"In the first half of the 1937-38 hog marketing year," says the Department of Agriculture, "the number of hogs slaughtered will be smaller than in the corresponding period of 1936-37. With prospects fairly favorable for continuation of the present relatively strong consumer demand for meats, hog prices next fall and winter probably will average as high, or perhaps higher than in the fall and winter of 1936-37."

REQUIRE MORE PROTEIN

Hog production offers many advantages for farmers, efficiently supplementing other types of livestock farming, requiring a relatively small investment and producing gains more rapidly and efficiently than other classes of stock. Important, also, is the fact that pigs can be marketed at a wide range of weights, giving the feeder comparative freedom to take advantage of a good market by selling early or to feed to heavier weights for later marketing.

Because of the rapid growth of swine, and of the fact they consume relatively little roughage, the supplying of adequate amounts of protein is of major importance in the economical feeding of hogs. Pigs need rations containing liberal proportions of protein. Unless this is supplied, they will make slow and expensive gains.

SELF-FEEDERS USEFUL

Self-Feeders, which enable the hog to balance his own ration, save time and labor for the hog raiser. In the South, where pastures are available much of the year, the use of self-feeders on pastures or forage crops is rapidly gaining in popularity.

Protein supplements in the self-feeder increase both the gain and rate of gain. A half-and-half mixture of cottonseed meal and tankage, fish meal or shrimp bran, is the standard protein supplement on many farms. The price and availability usually determines the choice of grain used in the self-feeder. Plenty of water and a mineral mixture of equal parts of ground limestone or oyster shells, bone meal and salt, should be available at all times.

The half-and-half mixture of cottonseed meal and tankage, fish meal or shrimp bran is widely used, also to supply essential protein for swine "hogging down" or "hogging off" corn fields.

A WELL BALANCED RATION

Other feeders prefer to mix the grain and protein supplements, rather than using a self-feeder. The following ration is excellent for feeding pigs from the time that they weigh about 75 pounds until ready for market at a weight of about 250 pounds. It may be fed either with green pasture or in the dry lot, and offers a wide choice of grains to be used.

Shelled corn; or milo, kaffir or feterita; or finely ground barley or coarsely ground wheat, 87 pound, cottonseed meal 9 pounds; tankage 4 pounds; limestone, or oyster shell flour, bone meal, or wood ashes 1 pound; salt one-half pound.

When hand-fed, pigs should receive all of the mixture that they will clean up quickly twice daily. This may be fed dry or as slop.

WORKER AND CONSUMER SOAKED

The Tax Policy League recently published an analysis of special chain store taxes. It demonstrates vividly the amazing differences in the taxing methods of the various states—differences that in many cases have bred glaring injustices.

Twenty states now have graduated chain store taxes. The Iowa and Minnesota rates are the lightest for chains with less than a hundred stores, and Texas rates are the heaviest. Texas and Pennsylvania have the steepest rates of progression.

A small chain of five stores pays a total special tax of but $20 in Iowa or Minnesota—but it must pay $310 in Florida and $50 in Montana. A chain of 20 stores pays $195 in Iowa and Minnesota, and $10,000 in Idaho. The top rate is in Texas, where $750 per store must be paid in class taxes for each store over 50.

The results of excessive taxation of retail outlets are at last becoming evident. A major chain was recently forced to close a large number of stores in Pennsylvania, where a chain of 500 stores must pay a special tax of $184,000. This means that employees were thrown out of work, property vacated and competition lessened—at the expense of the general public.

The average chain store system earns a net profit of but one or two cents for each dollar of business transacted. Some proposed taxes would actually have cost the chains more than their entire net earnings in average years. Faced with a discriminatory financial burden such as this, the chain can do but one of two things—raise its prices along the line or close its store.

Lasses Sweet Feed

We Are Now Manufacturing This Feed at Our Hamlin Mill

THIS FEED IS COMPOSED OF:

22 Per Cent Cottonseed Meal

12 Per Cent Molasses

65 Per Cent Hulls

and 1 Per Cent Salt

All of these ingredients are necessary to make a balanced ration. The hulls are necessary for a filler. The Meal is the most valuable PROTEIN FEED obtainable, and is necessary to produce milk and butter, also fat. The Molasses takes the place of grain and experiments have proven it to be worth about the same value as corn. This gives the feed a sweet flavor making it very appetising. The salt will cause the animal to drink more water

We manufacture this feed in bulk and also in one hundred pound sacks. At this time we are making an extremely low price of

$1.00 Per 100 Lbs. In Bulk

Or $1.10 In Sacks

Uncommon Americans

By Elmo Scott Watson

Sam Hawken, Rifemaker

WHAT a Stradivarius is to violinists, a Hawken rifle is to those who love fine firearms. For a genuine example of the workmanship of "Old Sam" Hawken of St. Louis is one of the rarest weapons in existence. So far as is known, there are only five.

But it is not alone the rarity of these rifles which makes them interesting. It's a case of "the man behind the gun" as well. He was Samuel Hawken, born of Pennsylvania Dutch stock in Maryland in 1792. He was a soldier in the War of 1812 and after his return from it he began practicing the trade of gunsmith.

In 1822 he moved to St. Louis where his brother, Jacob Hawken, was already engaged in making guns. That was the golden era of the fur trade and the fame of the rifles which Samuel and Jacob Hawken were making soon spread all along the frontier because they were the most accurate and finest pieces of workmanship available, not even excepting the famous Kentucky "long rifles."

The demand for Hawken's product was limited only by the supply, which was small. For Hawken made every rifle by hand, welding the barrels out of strips of iron which he got from an iron furnace on the Meramec river in Missouri.
These strips were hammered into five-inch lengths and welded around a steel mandrel, thus making the tube which was bored out with a rifling tool afterwards. It was a tedious and thoroughgoing job of work, unusual even in those days of careful and honest craftsmanship.

But what was even more unusual was the fact that Hawken had one price for his rifles. That was $25—no more, no less. He could have had twice or three times that price, so great was the demand, but he refused to charge more because he believed that one price brought him trade.

Jacob Hawken died during the cholera epidemic of 1849 in St.
Louis and Samuel Hawken continued in the business until 1859 when he sold out to an apprentice, John P.
Gemmer who was running the Hawken shop when Samuel Hawken returned to St. Louis in 1861 to spend his declining years. "Old Sam" became a regular habitue of the shop so long as he lived and could scarcely keep his hands off the tools, so greatly did he love the work. Once Gemmer allowed him to don an apron and make a rifle complete as he had done in years gone by and this rifle, probably the last which "Old Sam," honest workman, ever made, is one of the two Hawken rifles now owned by the Missouri Historical society.

POINTS and Personalities . .

by doris pope

In looking around Hamlin, we have observed that some of our most prominent citizens aren't getting the publicity that is due them. Therefore, we resorted to writing this column. We hope that all of you will like it so that we can continue—and remember that everything is just in "fun." If "Points and Personalities" meets with your approval, we will try to write it each week, but it is up to YOU to keep us in soap.

This week we are deeply indebted to some of our friends who were kind enough to tip us off. All contributions are appreciated.

RARE entertainment: The Cuban love song sung by Hamlin's three charming globe-trotters who recently returned.

And speaking of music—have you heard the melodious strains of "Sweet Adeline" sung at 1:30 A. M. by the city's famous duo? (Two awfully cute boys.)

The city's little ray of sunshine is a certain stenographer who is a constant griper.

PERSONALITY of the week: A big, good-humored Irishman with sparse reddish-brown hair and a million dollar smile. His chief occupation is banking, but he is interested in animals, especially Lions and cows. His weaknesses are golf and flashy ties.

It is rumored that a certain prominent young farmer and stockman of Hamlin has been offered a place on the board of trustees of Denton Teachers College. Something's wrong.
He won't accept.

Who is the well known grocery man with large and sinewy muscles who has to have a hypole with every little tooth-ache?

An ex-citizen of Hamlin who is at present an outstanding lawyer in Jones County was a recent visitor in our city. We could easily tell that he was from Anson by the way he wore his hat.

Oil! OIL! Everybody is talking oil! We were wondering who Hamlin's biggest oil man is, and we were told that he is a prominent druggist—with oil on the hair and gas on the stomach.

Window of the week: Salutes this week go to Forrest Greenway of Bryant-Link Company, for a most attractive and striking window display.
Have you noticed his display of fall shoes against a background of fall shades of orange and green?

We understand that the biggest mouth in town is located directly under the nose of the shortest lawyer in Hamlin. His poor wife—how she will suffer.

Can any one furnish us a complete list of officers for the Lions Club?
We just want to check up on the article that appeared in last week's Herald. By the way, we wonder if a married man wrote that dissertation?

The most interesting social event of the week was the swimming party and picnic at Stamford which was given by an attractive young matron of Hamlin—especially when she remembered that she had left the food at home on the kitchen table. Yes, the hamburgers were good.

What young lady who is manager of one of Hamlin's most popular stores was all-a-flutter this week over her FIRST train ride?

Hubert Via, who is employed by the Bryant-Link Store of Stamford, is spending his vacation in Hamlin visiting his mother, Mrs. M. T. Via.

daughter, Miss Maxine, returned this week from a months vacation in New York. They also visited various points of interest in other northeastern states and Canada.

Mrs. Bob Low and sons, Bob Jack

Pecos and Alpine. While away, they will also visit the Carlsbad Caverns.
Miss Frances Christine Hayes, of tended visit with her father, L. C.

WASHINGTON NEWS

FROM CONGRESSMAN
CLYDE L. GARRETT

VISITORS—Reverend Jenkins and son were here from Abilene. A large group of FFA boys from Santo came in last Saturday and visited us over the week-end. They saw all the sights and had a good time.

MUCH TO BE DONE—The President is still intent in his desire to have certain legislation passed. The minimum immediate program of major legislative objectives includes passage of wages and hours bill, procedural reform for the lower Federal courts, a slum clearance, and housing bill. The reorganization of executive agencies, nationwide regional power set-up, and an agricultural program seem to be some of the legislation that will not be brought up at this session.

WAGE AND HOUR BILL—The wage and hour bill has been passed by the Senate at last. There is some doubt whether the measure will be so favorably met in the House. It is likely that it will face a bitter fight.

NAVAL RESERVE—The President approved a plan of two veteran admirals, Admiral Leahy and Rear Admiral Andrews, for the building of an adequate naval reserve. Mr. Roosevelt said that plans are being shaped to accommodate thousands of high school and college students in summer naval training stations. Although there will be no pay, there will be plenty of food, salt air and bell-shaped trousers.

FINANCING—Insiders are saying that Treasury officials are thinking of using payroll tax money, soon to reach large totals, to finance Federal programs of low-cost housing, tenant's aid and seven TVA's.

WAR IN EAST—The Chinese-Japanese situation is expected by the State Department to quiet down without any serious outbreak of war. Because of the way our neutrality law would apply to this situation sentiment is growing in Congress to modify the law. In event of war it would be unfair to China because of her lack of navy or merchant marine.

TAX LOOPHOLES—A bill to plug the loopholes in tax laws, that may save the government $100,000,000 next year alone, expects to be ready this week. Pressure taxes on various corporate devices used to reduce tax payments, is to be used as the basis of the bill according to Chairman Doughton, of N. C., who is chairman of the joint committee on tax avoidance.

ADJOURNMENT—Congress is still looking forward with pleasure to the day when they can go home. Although many believe the adjournment will take place around August 15, others are saying it will be in October.

GOLD—Adviser on gold policy are worried over the loss of gold now that the flow of the metal has reversed temporarily. A short time ago they were worried over the inflow of the gold, now over the storage.

TRAINS LIMITED—The Senate passed the bill limiting railroad trains to 70 cars as a safety measure. The bill was sponsored by Senator McCarran. Symptoms of a southern filibuster were attempted by a Senator when he tried to attach to the McCarran bill the Gavagan anti-lynching bill, which has passed the House. The amendment was tabled by a 41-43 vote.

NEW ASSISTANTS—The House voted 260-88 to give the President six new assistants at $10,000 a year each. This is the first step in the far-reaching executive organization plan. The measure awaits Senate action.

GAS AND OIL PRODUCTION—Final action was taken by the House recently on a resolution to obtain Congressional approval to continue on interstate compact to conserve oil and gas in five southwestern petroleum-producing states.

J. L. Waggoner, of Vernon, has accepted a position with the Waggoner Drug Company. He comes well recommended as a Fountain Manager, and another bit of interesting news—he is a single man.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. La Baume and children, Inez and Lewis, and Mr. and Mrs. George La Baume and little daughter, Margaret Mae, returned Wednesday from vacationing in Erath County, where they attended a reunion of five generations.

Gen. Lee, U. S. A.;
Gen. Grant, C. S. A.!

"GEN. ROBERT E. LEE, commander in chief of the Union armies; Gen. Ulysses S. Grant, commander in chief of the Confederate armies." Sounds all wrong, doesn't it? But it might have turned out that way! Most of us know that, before Virginia seceded from the Union and Lee decided to cast his lot with his native state, President Lincoln offered him command of the Union army, which he declined. But it is not so well known that Grant also received a similar offer from the Confederacy. But Grant's own words are our evidence for that fact. Years later when he was President, he offered Robert Martin Douglas, the son of Stephen A. Douglas, a government position. At that time he declared: "I was about to accept a Confederate commission when your father dissuaded me. All my career I owe to him and nothing is too good for his son."

It would not have been so unusual if he had accepted the commission, for at the time he was an ex-officer of the United States army, a Democrat and married to a Missouri woman who owned slaves—all sufficiently good reasons for his entering the service of the South. If he had and if Lee had accepted Lincoln's offer, how different the outcome of the war might have been! There might have been no Appomattox, but if there had been the historic roles might have been reversed, making Lee the victor and Grant the vanquished!

Greatly Expanded Production Required for Full Recovery

By HAROLD G. MOULTON
President, The Brookings Institution

WASHINGTON — Recovery in the United States has gone far, but it has been marked by two striking characteristics—slowness of the gains in the durable goods industries and the persistence of a great volume of unemployment. At the Brookings Institution, we have made a comprehensive analysis of the American situation which included a detailed study of the production requirements for full recovery. The production task ahead—if standards of living are to be restored even to their former level—is found to be as follows:

1. To make good the actual deterioration of plant and equipment sustained during the depression.
2. To increase productive capital in line with the growth of population.
3. To expand the output of consumption goods in accordance with this growth of population.

The study was made under a grant from the Falk Foundation of Pittsburgh. In it, we sought to estimate how great an increase in output would be required to restore by 1941 a per capita

The recovery movement between 1934 and 1936 was thus soundly based. Production was steadily mounting, purchasing power was being spread broadly among the masses, speculation was not excessive, business men had not stocked up with heavy supplies of goods, and the general balance between production and consumption was satisfactory.

At the end of 1936, therefore, the stage seemed set for a period of great expansion. Production requirements were adequate to absorb all the unemployed. The recovery movement was steadily broadening; the economic system as a whole was in reasonably good balance, and at the same time the possibility of the government balancing its budget appeared somewhat brighter.

Further Expansion Threatened: In recent months, particularly since February, the situation has changed in one vitally important respect. Rapid increases in raw material prices and in wages have laid the basis for an old-time vicious spiral of inflation. While the particular labor groups who receive higher wages may stand to gain for

"Real" Hourly Earnings in Manufacturing, 1920-36

The above chart illustrates the improvement in "real" hourly earnings of manufacturing workers that took place from 1919 to 1937. Earnings moved upward, while the cost of living went down, making it possible for workers to buy more for their money. This is particularly noticeable in the recovery period since 1932. It should be kept in mind, however, that the average number of hours worked has been substantially reduced in recent years. On the other hand, the buying power of the consumer's dollar has increased somewhat more than is indicated because of improvement in the quality of goods and services used in the cost-of-living index.

level of production and consumption equal to that of 1929. The results of the survey of the situation in the fields of housing and other forms of durable goods, steam railroads, public utilities, industrial enterprises, etc., are striking. It would be necessary to produce such durable goods at the rate of approximately 33 billion dollars annually from 1937 through 1941, as compared with actual production of only 21 billions in 1936, and of 25 billions annually in the boom period between 1925 and 1929.

In other words, to make up for what it did not produce in depression years, and to provide for the needs of an expanding population, the nation would have to produce annually 60 per cent more durable goods than in 1936. Three times as much housing construction would be necessary. In the field of non-durable, consumption goods which are such things as food, clothes, and amusements, such a large expansion would not be needed.

Labor Shortage Might Result

The production program required in the field of durable goods would necessitate—at present working hours—the employment of from 8 to 9 million additional laborers. Making allowance for additional workers needed to produce consumption goods, it appears certain that unless working hours were lengthened, there would be shortages of both skilled and unskilled labor.

Since standards of living cannot be restored to former levels unless productive output is restored, any further shortening of the working week will restrain the expansion of output and thus restrict the raising of standards of living. It should be borne in mind that working hours have been reduced since 1929 by approximately 20 per cent, as compared with only 13 per cent in the preceding 30 years.

The present recovery movement has been marked by steadily increasing wage rates as compared with prices, and this has increased purchasing power among the masses. The employment of more workers as production has expanded has increased the flow of money to the working population; and at the same time those already employed have been able to buy more with their wages. During the same period, profits have been greatly increased from low depression levels as a result of the expansion of output and an increase of efficiency. This efficiency increase has been about in proportion to wage rates.

time, and while the industries in question may temporarily pass on higher costs to consumers, further broad expansion of business activity appears to be threatened.

The advance in the prices of such basic products as iron and steel and other metals, building materials, etc., may hamper expansion of production in certain very important lines. Only recently have the railroads gotten into a financial shape that would permit them to spend much money on new equipment and the building of better roadbed and track. Now, with the price of steel rising, and with wage increases also in prospect, it is doubtful whether the railroads will be able to carry out the extensive programs of rehabilitation which they have planned. Similarly, the building of new houses, apartments, etc., may be held back by the rising prices of building materials. If this turns out to be the case, it will check the reemployment of idle workers, and the attainment of the higher standards of living which are so greatly desired.

Large sections of the population would soon suffer as a result of a rapid rise in prices. Among them are farmers who do not work for wages, individuals on fixed salaries; and those living on incomes from investments. These constitute more than half the total population. Perhaps the most serious phase of the problem is the possibility of a new disparity between industrial and agricultural prices which may result if wages force industrial prices upward.

Stimulation Only Temporary

The adverse effects upon production may be considerably delayed, because a rise in prices usually stimulates business for the time being. With prices going up, business men and others hasten to place orders and buy extra quantities in order to be ahead of the price advance. This speeds up business activity and for a time increases the demand for labor. Such expansion of demand in turn serves to increase the demand for products and to raise prices the more rapidly. In due course, however, price relationships are so disturbed that certain groups of people lose purchasing power. This, in turn, sets in motion forces which tend to reduce prosperity.

Fortunately, the dangers inherent in this situation appear to have been recognized, and efforts are being made by both business and the government to restrain price advances.

GROWING UP

DENTON.—The Lone Star State's wide open spaces are closing up. Although Texas still ranks low on the amount of population per square mile, it shows a greater per cent of increase since 1920 than all but five of the forty-eight states. According to the 1930 census the number people had grown to 24.9 per cent in the 1920 tabulation, a figure topped only by the states of California, Arizona, Michigan, Florida and New Jersey. The total population by the last census was 5,824,715, which placed Texas as the fifth largest state in the United States.

PICK ANY CLIMATE

Rainfall in Texas varies from more than 50 inches in some parts of Southeast Texas to less than 10 inches in the west toward El Paso. Maximum snowfall is over 25 inches in the Panhandle, but snow has never been seen by some people in the Valley and other southern points.

COMPLICATING MATTERS

More than 500 types of Texas soils have been discovered and studied by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at College Station even though all counties have not been surveyed. This diversity of resources has brought newly-recognized problems to farmers, and according to W. T. Carter in a Texas Soils Bulletin, "The success of agriculture in Texas depends upon the appropriate use of the soils, which constitute the most valuable resource of the state."

LISTEN MEN

Unusual interest has been manifested in the mission meeting of the Church of Christ in the Flat Top community. Good crowds have been in attendance and fine attention has been given to the gospel message. The public has a cordial invitation to the remaining services of that meeting, closing Sunday night.

The usual services will be in progress at the Church of Christ in Hamlin, with the Sunday evening service being held one hour early, at 7:15 P. M. The early evening service has attracted many. It is a convenient arrangement. Come Sunday. Attend Bible school and stay for worship. Come to the evening service.

Broil the steaks quickly until brown on each side. Put in roaster and pour the following sauce over while it cooks slowly: one half cup butter, 3 T. catsup, 1 T. Worcestershire-type sauce, 2 t. mustard and juice of one half lemon. Mix till smooth and keep warm till used.

Miss Hipp gave a demonstration on building out-door fire places.

Less Monthly Discomfort

Many women, who formerly suffered from a weak, run-down condition as a result of poor assimilation of food, say they benefited by taking CARDUI, a special medicine for women. They found it helped to increase the appetite and improve digestion, thereby bringing them more strength from their food.

Naturally there is less discomfort at monthly periods when the system has been strengthened and the various functions restored and regulated.

Cardui, praised by thousands of women, is well worth trying. Of course, if not benefited, consult a physician.

Revival Meeting

At the

Baptist Church

This Sunday morning at eleven o'clock, we will have our first service in our revival meeting.

The local forces will lead in this meeting. The pastor, J. Henry Littleton will preach twice each day and Ernest Massey will direct the music.

We will have the day services at ten o'clock in the church auditorium but the evening services will be out doors on the vacant lot between Mr. McMahon's and Mr. Arnett's. This spot will be comfortably seated and well lighted.

We expect a good choir with a large orchestra to lead the singing. Bro. Massey needs the assistance of every one in the community who sings to help him in the song service.

This is the beginning of the pastor's thirteenth years work in Hamlin. He is asking God to give him a series of the best messages he has ever preached. He promises to preach Christ for the salvation of a lost world and condemn sin even as the Bible condemns it.

We need the help of all Christian people in Hamlin and are praying that this meeting will be a blessing to all the churches in our town.

REMEMBER THE DATE:

Sunday, August 15th

Continuing for several days. This is your invitation to come join with us in a campaign for righteousness against sin.

J. HENRY LITTLETON, Pastor.

The Cavalcade of the Americas, a great historical spectacle depicting the struggle for liberty on the part of the peoples of the nations of the Western Hemisphere, is a free attraction at the Pan American Exposition in Dallas. The production cost $500,000 and is on the largest stage in the world. Scenes from Cavalcade, shown above, are: (1) The landing of Christopher Columbus; (2) Geraldine Robertson, star of Cavalcade; (3) Cortez captures Mexico City; (4) Bolivar's cavalry charges the Spaniards.

GOVERNOR ALLRED TO FURNISH LETTERS FOR THE HERALD

Below is a letter from the Governor of Texas and right here let us say it seems a good idea—to be sure ALL State Officials could not get this opportunity if they so desired, as it would overload the smaller papers—but the Governor comes first and "facts" of government will be taken "straight" from him—this meets the Herald's hearty approval. Watch for this heading and what the Governor has to say each week:

Austin, Texas, July 31, 1937
Dear Editor:

A number of my friends have been kind enough to suggest that I write a column for the weekly newspapers, giving information not ordinarily available in news accounts. I appreciate this suggestion; and, in view of public misunderstanding of the real facts in regard to a number of important matters, I have concluded to avail myself of this opportunity. At least, I want to try it for a while.

At my personal expense, I am going to print and mail to you each week, if you can use it, a column, "The Rest of the Record." I enclose the first printed column herewith and will appreciate it if you will advise me frankly what you think about it.

With kindest regards, I am

Sincerely yours,

JAMES V. ALLRED,
Governor of Texas.

THE REST OF THE RECORD

BY JAMES V. ALLRED
Governor of Texas

AUSTIN — There are times when every public official wishes he could lay before the people all the facts in a current controversy, so that the people themselves might judge whether his acts were justified.

Several editor friends to whom I made this comment have replied, "Well, Jimmie, why don't you write out those facts as you see them?" So I have decided to do just that, and take advantage of the generosity of these editors by laying before their readers what I call "the rest of the record." This is my first try at it.

SCHOOL CRITICISM UNFAIR

It's a strange thing when public officials are criticized for reducing taxes—for reducing taxes without detracting one iota from public service. Yet, believe it or not, that is exactly what is happening in the current controversy over the state's public school apportionment.

Because State Comptroller George Sheppard and I cut the property tax rate for school purposes from 20 cents to 7 cents, we are accused by other public officials—who should be as deeply concerned as we are over the average man's tax burden—of taking something somehow, from the school children of Texas.

I tell you flatly, that is not true. At their best, these statements give you but a part of the record. And a very distorted part, at that.

Every informed school official knows that since I have been governor, the schools have received far more aid from the state than ever before in the state's history.

RECORD FRIENDLY

For parents in general, who are not apprised of the mechanics of state aid, this explanation is in order: The state helps support schools through two means. First, there is the available school fund, which is divided among the districts on the basis of registered children of school age.

There is the "rural aid fund" or the "equalization fund," so-called, which is an additional grant to poorer rural districts.

Rural aid has jumped two and a half million dollars each year I have been in office! When I was inaugurated, it totalled three million dollars; today it is five and a half million. The present controversy isn't over rural aid; it is concerned with the available school fund, distributed on a basis of so much for each child—the state "per capita."

Now this fact is undisputed: During the first year of my administration, the state contributed $19 per capita apportionment toward the education of each of approximately 1,500,000 Texas children—and this payment likewise was the amount in Texas history.

But here is the fact which the critics want you to forget: the per capita this year will be even greater—at least $20, and perhaps a little more—and at the same time property tax payers will get a tax reduction! The revenues will come from other sources than ad valorem taxes on property.

Does that sound like taking anything from anybody?

TAX REDUCTION STAND

Upon what are the critics basing their charges. Well, here's how it all happened!

The law says the per capita shall be fixed by the State Board of Education, on or before August 1st. At this time, the Comptroller shall furnish the Board of Education with an estimate of available funds. The Board is then required to do a simple problem in arithmetic—divide the total anticipated revenues by the total number of pupils—and the answer is the per capita.

Now another law says that the Automatic Tax Board, of which Mr. Sheppard and I are members, shall meet by July 20th and set a property tax which will insure enough anticipated revenues to pay $17.50 per capita.

I construe these two laws to mean that the tax board must meet first, find out how much money will be available for schools, and vote enough property taxes to make up the difference. Last year, that's what we did. We found we could reduce the school tax from 35c to 20 cents, and still pay the schools $17.50. Not a soul objected. Happily, revenues from other sources were greater than expected, and a per capita of $18.00 was possible.

But this year, for some mysterious reason, the Board of Education met first, and presumed that we would continue the 20 cent tax, regardless of need. Why they so presumed is as deep mystery as why they met before they possibly could know what the revenues would be—for they couldn't know until after the tax board met. With the 20 cent tax rate, they could make a per capita apportionment of $22, or expressed another way, an increase of $4,680,000 over last year.

I firmly believe that certain people thought they saw a way to tie the hands of the Tax Board and force Mr. Sheppard and me to yield to political expediency at the expense of the taxpayers—who certainly ought to be entitled to some consideration. Everybody knows how burdensome real estate taxes have become.

Right here I want to say George Sheppard showed unusual courage. Most everybody knew how I felt on the matter; so they concentrated on him and he was deluged with telegrams, letters and personal visits to play politics. He is a fine public official, and I suggest if you approve his course, you drop him a note. He will appreciate it.

Mr. Sheppard and I saw eye to eye on this matter; we believe that the law makes it mandatory on us to see that the schools get $17.50 per capita. We did that and they're going to get $20; and at the same time, the taxpayers are going to get a tax reduction.

As a final citation of the record, concerning the attitude of public school teachers: In February of this year, one of the heads of the Teachers Association told a legislative committee that if they could "hold the $19 and maybe get $1 more they would be tickled to death." By that statement the teachers have reason today to be plenty happy.

The Government of Mexico has invited Mrs. Allred and me to visit that country. We are leaving Sunday, August, by train, and next week I hope to have something interesting to tell you about our neighbors. This will be our first real vacation and we are looking forward to a lot of sightseeing.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Fomby spent last week-end in Lubbock visiting relatives.

Delma Shelburne and Misses Kathryn Adkins and Jewel Dean visited Miss Dean's sister, Miss Ruby, who is attending Sul Ross in Alpine. Also they visited Carlsbad Caverns.

Dr. and Mrs. Carl Rister, of Norman, Oklahoma, are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. P. May, and other relatives. Dr. Rister went to Austin this week where he will do several days research work in The University of Texas.

Mrs. J. D. Burke and children turned this week from Breckenridge where they had been visiting relatives.
